James R. Peterson is a Member of the firm and has been practicing law at Miller Johnson since 1989. His practice areas include constitutional law, commercial litigation, trade secret litigation, professional liability, real estate disputes, and unfair competition.

Commercial Litigation

Mr. Peterson works primarily with companies, and has handled their cases at the trial and appellate levels in the federal and state courts throughout Michigan.

He counsels and represents companies regarding all issues involving business disputes, including claims for breach of contract, non-competition agreements and trade secrets. When non-compete agreements are violated and trade secrets are threatened, his considerable litigation experience comes to the forefront. He has extensive experience with injunction hearings and has protected clients with restraining orders and injunctions when an employee resigns hoping to join a competitor.

Mr. Peterson has won many cases involving employment and business disputes. He has successfully litigated several multi-million dollar cases. These results are due to his knowledge of the
